

In October 2008, the Universal House of Justice announced 41 regional conferences to be held throughout the world over a period of 4 months. The response to the invitation was magnificent. Nearly 80,000 Bahá'ís and their friends from more than 170 countries attended.

This film is a unique historical and inspirational record of those precious moments when the participants gathered to share what they had learned in their community-building activities, to plan for the work ahead and to celebrate their achievements, arising to serve their fellow citizens of the world.
